

In a mock Tudor manor gone to seed lives 70-year-old Maud and her younger son, 45-year-old Mo. She speaks more to the soundless television than to him and he plays New Orleans jazz on his drums. An attempt to destroy this happy way of life is made on the occasion of the fathers funeral by Hedley, the older son, and by Queenie, Mos twin sister from California. But the cloistered pair prefer to remain in what is, in effect, a shed in the garden of Heartbreak House.
