Why should men have all the fun? Trice Thompson is a woman that moves to the beat of her own drum. She doesn't subscribe to the notion that women aren't allowed to move the way that men move, which keeps her quite busy in other men's bedrooms while her husband is away on business. On the brink of making partner at her real estate company and sleeping with some of the most eligible bachelors Atlanta, Georgia has to offer, things couldn't be better for Trice - that is until her distant little sister, Bianca, comes from out of the shadows of her dark past, threatening to expose her for who she really is. Trice finds herself in a difficult situation. A situation that could not only ruin her marriage...But could also cost Trice her life!
