

A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky (Look Up, America!)

There is no better way to see America than on foot. And there is no better way to appreciate what you are looking at than with a walking tour. Whether you are preparing for a road trip or just out to look at your own town in a new way, a downloadable walking tour is ready to explore when you are. Each walking tour describes historical and architectural landmarks and provides pictures to help out when those pesky street addresses are missing. Every tour also includes a quick primer on identifying architectural styles seen on American streets. By 1820, before steamboats tamed the Ohio River and drew industry to its banks, Lexington was one of the largest and wealthiest towns west of the Allegheny Mountains. If you wanted to engage in commerce you came to Lexington. If you wanted an education you came to Lexington. If you wanted to keep up with the latest news or borrow a book you came to Lexington. Early on the growing of hemp used in ropes on sailing ships drove the economy. The tobacco became a cash crop for more than a century. There were local distilleries and in recent years education and technology have been the economic engine. But hovering above it all in Lexington since its founding in 1775 has been horse breeding. The men from Maryland and Virginia who settled the town rode their best horses over the mountains or floated them on flatboats down the Kentucky River. The first census in 1790 showed more horses in Lexington than people. Kentucky's first races had begun informally three years earlier. An early law in the county was passed that was designed to keep the blood of race horses pure. Stallions were imported from England and Arabia and the breeding of thoroughbreds, trotters and saddle horses came to infuse every aspect of life in Lexington. Today nearly 50,000 horses are bred each year on the Bluegrass Country farms around Lexington. Lexington has sometimes been called the city in a park for all the surrounding horse farms but our walking tour of the historic town will uncover nary a reference to race horses. Even the golden stallion weathervane that once lorded over the city from the top of the Fayette County Courthouse is no longer seen (although it is inside the building) and that is where we will begin our tour...

A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky (Look Up, America!) There is no better way to see America than on foot And there is no better way to appreciate what youIn the early American colonies whiskey was made with rye and used as a Six historic distilleries in the Lexington area have regular tour programs. . in the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels), guided Buffalo Trace through For ages 12 and up, this tour includes an exciting insiders look at the entire distilling process.A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky (Look Up, America!) Kindle Edition. by . Similar books to A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky (Look Up, America!)Stay at Beaumont Inn in Harrodsburg, a Kentucky bed and breakfast hotel near We are an official stop on the Kentucky Bourbon Trail (try 70 bourbons without leaving the inn!). Walk to downtown Harrodsburg or see nearby Shaker Village at Pleasant we look forward to helping you make wonderful lifetime memories.Let an Agritourism Adventure be your experience while traveling Kentuckys sounds (and smells!) of a working farm in a safe, wholesome environment. Some Kentucky farms offer an up-close look at alpacas, goats, llamas, sheep, . Lincolns Lexington Walking Tour encompasses 18 historic sites in this beautiful city.Discover the best Lexington Kentucky Travel Books in Best Sellers. Find the top 100 A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky (Look Up, America!) A WalkingWhether youre a bonafide browsing junkie or just looking for a special As the retail hub for a good portion of Kentucky, Lexington actually has a find many of the best-known specialty shop names in America - Click for PDF . Resale in Lexington goes far beyond Goodwill (although weve got that, too: six locations!)Built in 1910, the Prairie Style Zeigler house -- also known as the Fireproof House for $5000 -- is A Walking Tour of Frankfort, Kentucky (Look Up, America!)Explore the spirited Kentucky tradition of bourbon-making with free tours at using the Lexington Walk and Bluegrass Country Driving Tour, available at Drive or bike along Old Frankfort Pike (KY 1681), officially designated one of Americas Scenic Drive-by viewing is free, but if you really want a good look at it, make aLexington, Kentuckys official tourism site for vacation, meeting, convention and group tour Spend a lazy afternoon at one (or more!) of our local wineries.A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky (Look Up, America!) Lexington has sometimes been called the city in a park for all the surrounding horse farms butLearn about the history of downtown Lexington, Kentucky as reflected in its historic commercial buildings, churches, and homes. Enjoy this 90-minute walkingFor black American material, begin with various studies by Roger Abrahams, Deep Press, 1974) for native material, begin with Dennis Tedlock, Finding the Center: Marie Campbell, Taled from the Cloud-Walking Country (Bloomington, Ind.: Press, 1952), Leonard Roberts, South from Hell-fer-dartin (Lexington, Ky. Look Up, Kentucky! includes walking tours of Louisville, Lexington and Frankfort. A Walking Tour of Lexington, Kentucky

(Look Up, America!) Looking at downtown Lexington today, its hard to imagine a town of log Lexington was Kentuckys first big city - a bustling commercial, education and cultural center by 1800. For self-guided downtown walking tour options, contact the Lexington from Lexingtons beautiful courthouses (no, youre not seeing double!)