

Maui (Hawaii) 1:175 000 with Molokai, Lanai & Kahoolawe Dive Map, waterproof, FRANKO, 2012 edition This map is waterproof and tear-resistant, highly durable in the tropical climate of Hawaii. It is double-sided to provide the best balance between an excellent scale and a convenient sheet size (size 53 x 36 cm / 21 x 14), with topographic and diving information. This map is a guide and a map all in one! The guide contains loads of information telling visitors what there is to see and do on Maui. Its purpose is to provide the user with a listing and description of every scuba and snorkeling location on Maui. It is recognized that the number one thing to see or do on Maui is the underwater. Snorkeling may be the number one activity in Hawaii in general, but most specifically for visitors to Maui. So this map captures this part of Maui - the underwater. One side presents a unique depiction of Maui at 1:175 000 (1 inch = 2.8 miles). The shaded relief depicts the islands in a new, interesting and extremely pleasing way. It shows paved and dirt roads, trails, settlements, harbours, scuba sites, snorkel sites and surf spots. Road distances and elevations are shown in both feet and metres. On reverse is a map of a larger area of Maui County comprising the islands of Maui, Molokai, Lanai, Kahoolawe and Molokini, with a beautiful shaded relief presentation. These islands look like emerald jewels against descending hues of turquoise ocean blue on the map. The colors are unbelievable, but so it is true with Maui and her sister islands. Kahoolawe is a restricted area, there are no places to visit there (yet). Around the map there is a collection of artwork of tropical fish, which are named in Hawaiian and English, and depicted in a reef environment with photos.
